FEATURE OF THE MONTH

WHITNEY HOUSTON

Born on August 9th in 1963, Whitney Elizabeth Houston is an American Pop and R&B Singer, Actress, Film Producer, Record Producer, Songwriter, and Former Fashion Model. Her success has opened doors for many African American women. Often referred to as "The Voice", known mainly for her powerful, gospel-influenced vocals.

Whitney was born in a rough neighborhood in the projects of Newark, New Jersey. She is the third and youngest child of John and gospel singer Cissy Houston. Her mother, along with cousin Dionne Warwick and Godmother Aretha Franklin are all notable figures in the gospel, rhythm and blues, and soul genres.

During the 1980s, Whitney was one of the first black artists to receive regular rotation on MTV in the network's early years during a white male rock dominated time. Her debut album became the biggest selling debut album of all time for a solo artist (a record that has since been broken), her follow up album became the first album by a female artist to debut at number 1 on the Billboard 200, and she had a record seven consecutive number 1 singles on the Billboard Hot 100 chart. Whitney continued her success into Hollywood in the 1990s, starting with the box office hit "The Bodyguard". The soundtrack would become the best selling soundtrack of all time, the soundtrack's lead single was a cover of the Dolly Parton country hit "I Will Always Love You" it became the best selling single by a female artist. She continued the decade with other successful and culturally significant projects before returning to the studio. Whitney is the fourth best-selling female recording artist and is the winner of six Grammy Awards and 2 Emmy Awards.

After Whitney married former R&B singer Bobby Brown at the height of her career, rumors of drug and spousal abuse started to affect her career. This led to a decline in her public image and her album sales dropped during the 2000's. Her personal troubles and erratic behavior was talked about more than her music, regularly appearing in the tabloid press. Whitney underwent two drug rehab programs in 2005 and 2006. After a successful second program in 2006, Whitney divorced Brown and gained custody of their only daughter. She has since been working on her 7th studio album with music mogul and close friend and mentor Clive Davis, who confirmed that the CD will hit the stores in October 2008.

Finally may I remind you that the term "diva" is applied to nearly every female singer nowadays... but no one deserves it more than The Voice!!

Whitney Houston Curious:

The original script of 'The Bodyguard' had Whitney's character singing "What Becomes of the Broken Hearted". The idea to go with the Dolly Parton song "I Will Always Love You" instead was Kevin Costner's.

A number of radio stations in the US reported Whitney as having died on September 14th 2001. Her spokespeople were quick to correct the mistake.

Whitney has won a total of 26 American Music Awards.

She was named after actress Whitney Blake. .

"They don't say I sound like Mariah Carey, they say Mariah Carey sounds like me, you get what I'm saying?"
